

Spring 2013

www.nebraskapresswomen.org

NPW NEWS<sub>e</sub>LETTER

Creighton University is host for spring conference

by Sherry Thompson

Creighton University in Omaha is the site for Nebraska Press Women's April 20 spring conference, which will focus on Then, Now and Beyond. It's a fitting topic for both the conference and the university, which was established in 1878 and has expanded in the last decade and now encompasses 130 acres of campus. New additions include The Harper Center and the Ryan Center for women's athletics, both on the east end of campus. The campus bookstore is located in the Harper Center. The university has more than 7,700 students from across the United States and 41 countries, and it offers more than 50 undergraduate and 20-plus graduate programs.

The Princeton Review listed Creighton as one of the nation's top 377 colleges and universities in the 2013 edition of the annual college guide. The university also made the top 20 list in two categories related to qualify of life activities.

The conference will begin at 8:30 A.M. with registration, coffee and rolls in the Hitchcock Communication Arts building, where Eileen Wirth, Ph.D., NPW member and chair of the Department of Journalism, Media and Computing, will welcome attendees and show them around. The new department is a cutting-edge and forward-thinking department that prepares graduates for success in an information-rich world by melding programs in journalism, graphic design and computer science.

From there, the conference moves to the nearby Skutt Student Center for the remainder of the day. The membership meeting takes place from 9:30 to 10:30. Wirth, who

continued on page 4

Ruth Brown

Eileen Wirth, in front of St. John's Parish on the campus of Creighton University, will coordinate the convention and will serve as the keynote speaker, providing stories gleaned from her new book.

The Harper Center, which houses the bookstore, is a new addition to the Creighton University campus.

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

In the two years I served as vice president of Nebraska Press Women, I had the privilege of being involved in creating the Marian Andersen Nebraska Women Journalists Hall of Fame and inducting the first two groups of amazing women into the hall of fame.

The hall, located at Andersen Hall on the UNL campus, now has the photos and biographies of nine women who have been inducted. Two more, Clara Colby and Maxine Moul, will be inducted during the awards luncheon at the NPW Spring Convention April 20 at Creighton University in Omaha.

Colby, who lived in Beatrice from 1872 to 1904, edited and published The Women's Tribune for 26 years, informing isolated Midwestern readers about the women's suffrage movement. She traveled as a national women's suffrage speaker and was one of Elizabeth Cady Stanton's lieutenants. She was one of the organizers of the Women's State Suffrage Association in Nebraska and served as its president from 1885 to 1898.

Moul, who grew up in Burt County, began her career at the Sioux City Journal in Sioux City, Iowa, and later, with her husband, purchased the Syracuse Journal-Democrat. They expanded that operation into Maverick Media with publications in southeast Nebraska. She has been the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Development director for Nebraska since 2009, previously serving as Nebraska's lieutenant governor, director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development and president of the Nebraska Community Foundation.

During the first three years that we have sought nominations for the hall of fame, we on the NPW Board of Directors have learned of so many remarkable women who excelled in their fields, most of them at times when it was very difficult for women to even get jobs at newspapers and in other areas of communications. They were groundbreakers who made it possible for us to come along and follow in their footsteps.

Bette Pore

We owe them a lot and one thing we can do is share their stories with the people of our state.

Eileen Wirth, chairwoman of the Department of Journalism, Media and Computing at Creighton University, has taken a big step in that direction. She will be one of the speakers at our spring convention, talking about her new book, From Society Page to Front Page: Nebraska Women in Journalism.

This book chronicles the stories of many Nebraska women journalists who were able to challenge the way our culture looked at traditional feminine roles. From crusading for women's right to vote to fighting for civil rights, better working conditions for immigrants and food safety, they saw great need and they responded in the way any good journalist would, by communicating to the public about the situation and speaking out about what must be done to change the situation.

I hope many of you will be able to be with us April 20 at Creighton for Wirth's 10:45 A.M. presentation and for the luncheon at which Sherry Thompson, NPW vice president, will tell us about the two women we are inducting into the hall of fame this year. We will also be recognizing the high school students receiving awards in our high school contest and the recipient of the NPW Memorial Scholarship.

Eileen Wirth, at the Creightonian student newspaper office, is chair of the Department of Journalism, Computing and Media at Creighton.

Deadline for COA nominations approaches

by Martha Stoddard

Now is the time for all good Nebraska Press Women members to come to the aid of their organization. Specifically, it's time to start thinking about the NPW member who most deserves recognition as this year's NPW Communicator of Achievement.

Nominations for this year's award are due July 1, but early entries are welcome.

The annual COA award is the highest honor that NPW bestows on its members. The award is given based on a member's achievements and contributions to the profession, to the community and to NPW/National Federation of Press Women.

Any NPW member may submit nominations. Just write down who you believe should be considered and why. Send the nomination, along with your contact information, to: Martha Stoddard, 2846 Sedalia Drive, Lincoln, NE 68516, melizabeth@inebraska.com.

The winner will be announced at the fall convention. That person will then be entered in the national COA competition.

Two people are ineligible for nomination: Bette Pore, current NPW president, and Joan Burney, 1993 NFPW COA winner.

Past COAs are: Norma Carpenter, Velma Price, Helen Green, Lilas Thomas, Lilly Frels, Marianne Beel, Wilma Crumley, Lois Lambley, Judy Nelson, Marj Marlette, Judy Johnson, Vicki

continued on page 4

Conference theme is Then, Now and Beyond

by Sherry Thompson

Workshop sessions focus on Then, Now and Beyond as speakers will talk about trailblazing women journalists, keeping up with the skills necessary to succeed in today's communications world and the many facets of working in the communications field.

Lessons from Our Remarkable Foremothers in Nebraska

Eileen Wirth, PhD., never set out to be a groundbreaker for women in journalism, but if she wanted to report on social issues instead of society news, then she had no alternative. Her years as one of the first women reporters for the Omaha World-Herald gave her a unique perspective on groundbreaking women journalists who worked in every venue, from rural weeklies to TV.

Wirth, chair of the Department of Journalism, Media and Computing at Creighton University, is author of the new book From Society Page to Front Page: Nebraska Women in Journalism. She'll share her favorite stories from the amazing women she learned about for the book during her 10:45 A.M. presentation, Lessons from Our Remarkable Foremothers in Nebraska Journalism.

The book profiles women journalists who, over a hundred years, challenged the traditional feminine roles in journalism and subtly but surely changed the world. These women fought for the vote, better working conditions for immigrants and food safety at the turn of the century. They covered wars from the Russian Revolution to Vietnam, and they were White House reporters and minority journalists who crusaded for civil rights.

Dr. Eileen Wirth

"This is a must-read story of Nebraska women journalists' efforts to gain respect and credibility in a field that was dominated by men," NPW Past President Ruth Brown says about the book. "Wirth uses her firsthand experiences to help tell the stories of the little-known Nebraska trailblazers who preceded her. Placing the stories in the context of their eras, Wirth makes observations that will entertain and enlighten both male and female readers as she documents the progress."

Managing Your Ever-Changing Career

Amy Gubser is an executive career coach, certified resume writer and founder of CareerlaunchUSA with

continued on page 5

Creighton hosts NPW spring conference continued from page 1

is author of the new book From Society Page to Front Page: Nebraska Women in Journalism, is the featured speaker at 10:45.

At NPW's noon luncheon, two women will be inducted into the Marian Andersen Nebraska Women Journalists Hall of Fame. The winner of the NPW Memorial Scholarship and winners of the NPW High School Communications Contest will also be recognized at the luncheon.

The first session after lunch features Omaha career coach Amy Gubser focusing on Managing Your Ever-Changing Career. It will be followed by a 2:45 P.M. session on Reporters, Bloggers, Publicists and More. Speakers are Loretta Carroll, a former news anchor who now owns her own public relations and communications firm, Carroll Communications, and Deena Winter, a former newspaper reporter and blogger who is now with Nebraska Watchdog.

Options for free time from 4:00 to 6:00 include attending Mass at 5:00 at Saint John's Church, an historic gothic structure, on the Creighton campus, visiting the nearby Midtown Crossing or Old Market, exploring Creighton's campus on your own or relaxing at the motel.

The Awards Banquet begins at 6:00 and will be in the Skutt Student Center. Winners of this year's Professional Communications Contest will be recognized with certificates. Sweepstakes Awards will go to the three NPW contest entrants who accumulated the most points overall.

Registration for the conference is $50 for the full day, including all meals; $15 for lunch only; and $25 for dinner only. Send reservations to Stephanie Geery-Zink, 7352 S. 29th St, Lincoln, NE 68516. Registration deadline is April 10.

The NPW spring conference begins in the Department of Journalism, Media and Computing located in the Hitchcock Communication Arts building, a new cutting-edge and forward-thinking department.

A map of the Creighton campus is available on the university's website, <http://www.creighton.edu/maps>. Parking is available in the garage on 24th Street or anywhere that says visitor parking.

Questions about the conference? Email Eileen Wirth at emw@creighton.edu.

COA nominations continued from page 3

Miller, Jill Clafin, Mary Ann Blackledge, Karyn Stansbery, Evelyn Aufdenkamp, Lori Potter, Gwen Lindberg, Sue Fitzgerald, Andrea Cranford, Mary Crawford, Mary Pat Finn-Hoag, Barb Batie, Dorothy Fryer, Glennis Nagel, Cheryl Alberts Irwin, Ruth Brown, Barb Micek, Martha Stoddard, Terri Hahn, Stephanie Geery-Zink and Sherry Thompson.

Directions to the Creighton University Campus

To reach the campus coming from the west:

1. Take I-80 East
2. Take exit 452 to I-480/Hwy 75 North toward Eppley Airfield/ Downtown (get into far right lanes)
3. Take exit 2A, Dodge/Harney Streets
4. Turn right onto Douglas (one way east)
5. Turn left onto 24th Street
6. The entrance of the parking garage is on the east side of 24th Street.

Links to the map and directions will be emailed to conference registrants.

Conference theme: Then, Now and Beyond continued from page 3

years of training and practice under her belt. She knows what works and what doesn't in terms of positioning yourself for your next great career opportunity, and she'll share those insights in the session on Managing Your Ever-Changing Career.

Whether you're seeking a new job or you're switching careers, Gubser can equip you with the tools necessary for success. Having worked with topnotch global executives and professionals in a variety of industries, she provides her clients with the experience necessary to launch their careers to new heights. Using a range of strategies and proven techniques, Gubser provides her clients with a full spectrum of career services that goes above and beyond and serves her clients' greatest needs.

She holds a master's degree in adult education/human resources from the University of Houston in Clear Lake, Texas, and a bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa.

Reporters, Bloggers, Publicists and More

Loretta Carroll, owner of Carroll Communications, and Deena Winter, a reporter for Nebraska Watchdog, are speakers for the final session of the day. They will talk about how their past journalism jobs prepared them for their current positions.

Winter calls herself a cowgirl flunkie who grew up in the hardscrabble, frozen tundra of North Dakota, where she looked forward to rodeos, county fairs and picking rocks. She attended a private Catholic college in North Dakota. Based on a teacher telling her she was good at writing, Winter selected mass communications as her major. An internship at the local paper got her hooked on being a newspaperwoman. Her first real job out of college was with a paper called the Northwood Gleaner, where the veteran, gray-haired reporter still tapped out stories on a typewriter.

She has worked as a stringer for the AP and Denver Post, reporter-of-every-kind for the Bismarck Tribune and city hall reporter for the Lincoln Journal Star before leaving that job to become a blogger. When her husband didn't think it made financial sense for her to work for free, she took a paying job in October 2011 doing watchdog reporting for Nebraska Watchdog.

Winter's focus at the session is from reporter to blogger and back again – it's a wild ride in the new world of journalism.

Carroll launched Carroll Communications and began her career as a public relations strategist in 2004. Prior to that, she worked for 15 years at KMTV, anchoring three daily newscasts at the CBS affiliate. Her reporting was concentrated in the areas of health care and politics.

As a public relations consultant, she has expertise in crisis and issue management, social and traditional media, online marketing and web-based strategies. Carroll partners with clients likely to value smart communications integrating online marketing, social media and web strategies for maximum impact.

Carroll attended Syracuse University–Newhouse School of Public Communications.

Amy Gubser

Loretta Carroll

Deena Winter

NPW contest awards to be announced at banquet

by Mary Jane Skala, contest director

You won't want to miss the NPW communications awards banquet at 6 p.m. April 20. It's part of the NPW spring meeting at Creighton University.

Of the 129 entries from 21 NPW members, 43 won first place and have been forwarded to NFPW headquarters in Falls Church, VA. for the national NFPW contest.

As the results came in, the fun for me was reading the praiseworthy comments from judges. The judges included accomplished professional friends from my 40-year journalism career in Cleveland.

They included an award-winning reporter, a newspaper photographer/PR guru who now works for Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, and a retired newspaper editor/PR expert who was editor of an Ohio daily, a public relations chief for a major U.S. railroad and PR staffer for Blue Cross Blue Shield.

I also found a historic guru here in Kearney to judge two historical books, while the arts editor at the Kearney Hub read a screenplay and, with glowing comments, awarded it first prize.

I can't wait to share the comments and impressions from the judges, especially my friends in Ohio whose eyes were opened to the quality of Nebraska journalists,

Mark April 20 on your calendar. Enjoy the day learning about journalism, sharing thoughts with other members, then being honored at dinner that night.

National winners will be honored at the NFPW conference in Salt Lake City on Saturday, Aug. 24. Winners will be notified by mail several months before that. Our Nebraska work is outstanding, and I'm sure we'll bring home awards from Salt Lake City, too.

CALENDAR

April 5 - Deadline to make motel reservation for spring convention.

April 10 - Deadline to register for spring convention.

April 19 - 6:00 P.M. NPW spring board meeting and dinner, Motel 6 University Plaza, Omaha, NE.

April 20 - NPW Spring Convention at Creighton University, Omaha, NE.

Oct. 12 - NPW Fall Convention, Lincoln, NE.

Save the Date

NPW Fall Convention

October 12

Pioneer offices in Lincoln

Contest Director Mary Jane Skala preparing to open entry envelopes at the Kearney Hub on Jan. 19. The NPW awards will be presented at our spring convention at Creighton University.

Lori Potter

Two women will be inducted into Hall of Fame in April

by Sherry Thompson

Two women will be inducted into the Marian Andersen Nebraska Women Journalists Hall of Fame during the Nebraska Press Women's spring conference in Omaha on April 20.

Clara Bewick Colby and Maxine Moul have been chosen as this year's honorees. The induction will be conducted during a noon luncheon at Creighton University.

Clara Colby (1846–1916), Nebraska's most prominent suffragist, was a newspaper editor and lecturer whose personal commitment to equal rights resulted in a national career and an international reputation. Born in England, she immigrated to Wisconsin in 1854 and entered the University of Wisconsin in 1865.

In 1872, Clara and Leonard Colby moved to Beatrice, Nebraska, where Leonard opened a law practice and Clara started a public library and community theater. As editor and publisher of The Woman's Tribune, which originated in Beatrice in 1883, Colby provided isolated Midwestern readers with news of the national women's suffrage movement for 26 years.

"She holds the record for the longest running suffrage newspaper published by an individual," says Lauren Riedesel, director of the Beatrice Public Library. "While other contemporary suffrage newspapers were being published in places like Boston, San Francisco and New York City, Clara was publishing in Beatrice, Nebraska. Rather than bemoaning the remoteness of her location, she utilized it as an opportunity to write for and about the Western women. Clara Bewick Colby traveled to suffrage conferences on both coasts and wrote about the journeys to and from the events, as well as accounts of the conference activities." Colby was a close friend of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony.

Maxine Moul, who has a degree in journalism from the University of Nebraska–Lincoln, began her career at the Sioux City Journal in 1969. In 1971, she and her husband, Francis, founded Maverick Media Inc., a printing and publishing firm, in southeast Nebraska and purchased Francis' hometown newspaper in Syracuse. Maverick Media grew to eventually include five weekly rural newspapers, two magazines and eight free shopping guides. By the time the Moul family sold the business in 1988, there were 120 employees, with 80 of them in Syracuse.

Maxine was experienced in every aspect of producing a community newspaper. She wrote sports stories and feature stories, covered city government, edited, took photographs, worked in the darkroom and set type. In 1975, she took over financial management of Maverick Media and was president and CEO in the late 1980s.

In 1990, Moul entered politics and was elected lieutenant governor, serving nearly three years. At the governor's request, Moul crafted the administration's rural development policy and served as chair of the Nebraska Rural Development Commission. In 1993, the governor appointed her director of the

Marian Andersen Nebraska Women Journalists Hall of Fame Honorees

Wilma Crumley – 2011

Bess Furman Armstrong – 2011

Lynne Grasz – 2011

Marjorie Marlette – 2011

Beverly Pollock – 2011

Deanna Sands – 2011

Mildred Brown – 2012

Harriet Dakin MacMurphy – 2012

Mary McGrath – 2012

Clara Bewick Colby – 2013

Maxine Moul – 2013

Nebraska Department of Economic Development. After leaving state government, Moul served as the first chair and then president of the Nebraska Community Foundation.

Since 2009, Moul has served as the Nebraska State Director at USDA–Rural Development.

"When Maxine entered public service, she applied the skills and expertise of a good journalist to her work in government and politics. She has been an ardent and effective supporter of rural development and sustainability, continuing to serve the kinds of small communities of which her newspapers were a part," said Charlyne Berens, professor and associate dean, University of Nebraska –Lincoln, College of Journalism and Mass Communications.

With the induction of Colby and Moul, the Marian Andersen Nebraska Women Journalists Hall of Fame includes 11 members. Nominations are open to the public, and honorees are selected by the NPW Board of Directors.

NPW Spring Conference Schedule

Then, Now and Beyond

Friday, April 19

6 P.M.            Board meeting
Conference room, Motel 6 University Plaza, 330 N. 30th Street, Omaha
Meal catered by Katie's Greek Restaurant ($15 to be paid with registration)

Saturday, April 20

8:30–9:15 A.M.    Registration, welcome, coffee and rolls, Overview of Department of Journalism, Media and Computing
Hitchcock Communications Arts Creightonian Newsroom (east end of hall on 2nd flr)
Eileen Wirth, chair of Creighton's College of Journalism, Media and Computing

9:30–10:30 A.M.   Membership meeting
Skutt Student Center, Room 105
Bette Pore, NPW president

10:45 A.M.        Lessons from Our Remarkable Foremothers in Nebraska
Eileen Wirth, chair of Creighton's College of Journalism, Media and Computing

NOON              Hall of Fame luncheon
Skutt Student Center, Room 104
Recognize college scholarship winner, Barb Batie, scholarship director
Recognize high school contest winners, Holly Oswald, high school contest director
2013 Marian Andersen Nebraska Women Journalists Hall of Fame inductions, Sherry Thompson, vice president

1:30 to 2:30 P.M.   Managing Your Ever-Changing Career
Skutt Student Center, Room 105
Amy Gubser, founder of CareerlaunchUSA

2:45 to 3:45 P.M.   Reporters, Bloggers, Publicists and More
Skutt Student Center, Room 105
Loretta Carroll, owner of Carroll Communications
Deena Winter, reporter, Nebraska Watchdog

3:45 to 4 P.M.     Concluding remarks
Eileen Wirth

4 to 6 P.M.        Free time suggestions

- Visit the nearby Midtown Crossing or Old Market (guided outings may be available if enough interest)
- Attend 5 P.M. mass at Saint John's Church on Creighton's campus
- Walk around the Creighton campus on your own
- Relax at the conference motel

6 P.M.              Awards banquet
Skutt Student Center, Room 104
Mary Jane Skala, professional contest director

Board Meeting

The NPW Board of Directors will meet at 6 p.m. April 19 at Motel 6 University Plaza.

Dinner for those attending the board meeting will be a salad buffet catered by Katie's Greek Restaurant. Cost is $15 and should be included with your conference registration.

Membership Reminder

If you have not yet renewed your membership for Nebraska Press Women and/or National Federation of Press Women, a great time to do so is before the April 20 NPW spring convention.

And now you can join or renew your NPW membership easier than ever online at http://nebraskapresswomen.org/?page\_id=210. Or send dues to NPW Treasurer, Stephanie Geery-Zink, 7352 S. 29th St., Lincoln, NE 68506. NPW memberships are:

- State affiliate professional membership: $30
- State affiliate retired professional: $15
- State affiliate, student: $15

NPW/NFPW professional membership dues are payable to NFPW Membership, P.O. Box 34798, Alexandria, VA 22334-0798. NFPW memberships are:

- State/national professional: $96
- State/national retired: $35
- State/national student: $30

Be part of NPW and/or NFPW networking and professional development. Join or renew today!

Spring 2013

NPW MEMBER NEWS

Welcome, Nebraska Press Women

Colleen Gallion, associate editor, West Nebraska Register, colleen.wnr@gmail.com, 308-382-4660 or 800-652-2229 (toll-free, in-state), 2708 Old Fair Road, P. O. Box 608, Grand Island, NE 68802-0608. Home: 2535 Del Monte Ave., Grand Island, NE 68503, cell: 308-383-0020.

Kelly Helm Smith, communications and drought resources specialist for the National Drought Mitigation Center at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, ksmith2@unl.edu, 402-472-3373, P.O. Box 830988, Lincoln, NE, 68583-0988. Home: khelmsmith@yahoo.com, 1930 Otoe St., Lincoln, NE 68502, home/cell phone: 402-202-6587.

Welcome, Colleen and Kelly!

Also, congratulations to NPW member Vicki Jedlicka, publications and media assistant for UNL Extension in Lancaster County, for expanding her membership to the National Federation of Press Women. Congratulations, Vicki!

Thank You

In this season of thanks, I want to remember all of you, who are such an important part of my life.

Also, belated thanks for the beautiful Nebraska gift that NPW gave me at the fall convention in Grand Island. It is on my desk at work to provide daily reminders of your thoughtfulness. Numerous people have commented on how unique it is, and I am proud to say that it is from my NPW friends. Thank you so much!

~Ruth

Former NPW member dies

by Judy Nelson

Former Nebraska Press Women member Karyn Stansbery died Oct. 1, 2012 in Bellevue. She was 81.

Karyn loved to both hear and tell good stories, which she did through words and pictures as a freelancer and correspondent. She was a great verbal storyteller, as well. You can find her “Boot Hill—Tombstone History of Ogallala,” written for the FUN GUIDE supplement to the Keith County News in Ogallala, on the Web at www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~nekeith/boothill.html. She told great stories about her work on and findings for that article, and thoroughly enjoyed such research.

For years Karyn lived north of Ogallala, near Lake McConaughy. Both the Sandhills and that wide expanse of water and sky suited her, and were often reflected in her photographs.

Later she moved to Bellevue, to be near her daughter, Melody Peters, and Melody’s family.

A woman of strong convictions and great passions, Karyn loved a lively discussion. She had a great laugh, and a wonderful curiosity about the world around her.

Karyn served on the NPW board as treasurer. She was the driving force behind NPW’s memorial scholarship, and served as scholarship chair in the early years of the scholarship’s formation. Later she was honored to be named an NPW Woman of Achievement.

Karyn is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, two grandchildren, a niece and nephew, friends, and a number of lasting memories made with those who knew her. She was preceded in death by her husband, Clifford, and son, Billy, who were killed in a plane crash when Billy was just a boy.

Conference Motel

A block of rooms has been reserved at Motel 6 University Plaza, 330 N. 30th Street, located a mile from the Creighton University campus. The motel features free Wi-Fi and a conference room, where the Friday evening board meeting will be held. Free parking is available.

Rates are $48 a night, with no additional charge for a second person in the room. Reservations must be made by April 5 to receive the conference rate. For reservations, call 402.345.2222 and ask for the Nebraska Press Women rate.

To reach Creighton University from the motel, go north on 30th Street to Burt Street. Turn right and follow Burt to 24th Street. Turn right onto 24th Street and go south about a block and a half until you come to the entrance of the parking garage on the east side of 24th Street. Turn into the garage and park anywhere but the spots reserved for Jesuits.

Spring Conference Registration Form

Name _____

Address _____ City/State/Zip _____

Phone _____ Email _____

April 19 Dinner for board meeting—$15 _____

April 20 Full-day registration—$50 _____ Lunch only—$15 _____ Dinner only—$25 _____

Late registration fee (after April 10 add $5)

Please email late registration information to Stephanie Geery-Zink at stephaniegeeryzink@gmail.com.

Dietary restrictions _____

Registration deadline: April 10

Make checks payable to Nebraska Press Women. (If sending a corporate check, please indicate who it is for and enclose a registration form for each person the check covers)

Send checks to Stephanie Geery-Zink, 7352 S. 29 Street, Lincoln, NE 68516.